

Life ebbs and flows.. My mental state, including my intellect, emotions and will, oscillates between highs and lows. The process is like a sine wave, with its peaks and valleys, moving sideways with time. The flowing out occurs as I head downward into the valleys, the filling as I rise to the highs. The filling takes place until full, and the flowing out until I stop the hemorrhaging.

My low periods have been largely fueled by the onslaught of God's people being decimated day in and day out, and the incessant, overwhelming high volume of 'news' exalting the works of Satan and his minions of darkness. Although I have turned most of the obvious sources off, enough still leaks through. Ah, but an inspired word from His Word has come to the rescue. Hosea 4:6 says, "My people are destroyed (laid waste, into ruin, to a violent end) for lack of knowledge (know-how, cunning, discernment). Because you have rejected knowledge, I reject you from being a priest to me."

Two-three days ago I was in a low place, soured and apprehensive about nearly everything. I had the gumption to say, "One of these days there will be an epiphany, a breakthrough." Ah, LORD GOD, indeed there was. Seeds planted by my wife and by a close friend in KY grew last night into what follows. The watering, if you will, was done by the reading of a secular science book which enhanced what was already in growth.

Over the last 100 years or so, the very brightest of scientists/mathematicians have collectively unlocked the framework of how the universe was made and developed. These explanations have been encapsulated very clearly by a number of authors;<sup>3</sup> these books both inform and have the art of communication to unravel very complex subjects into fairly easy to understand words and phrases.<sup>4</sup>

This framework has been constructed essentially in a backwards fashion, i.e., solving the cause from examining the effect, backwards until a rational, defensible explanation is presented. This 100-year process has been sprinkled with error after error; but was corrected by the brilliant minds of those that ensued, keeping the true elements and discarding the errant.

Thus there are two subjects that arose out of the epiphany; one is the Goodness of God and the other the framework of opposing pairs in His Creation. All fields have two opposing forces, or mirror images of each other. Such are light/darkness, positive/negative charges, attraction/rejection, in/out, life/death, health/disease and good/evil. It is the unnecessary loss and destruction of His people that grieve the Most High. The Goodness of God is the root of His Creation, including Man, whom He never intended darkness to dominate (at least eternally).

---

<sup>2</sup> Einstein's famous summation of Theory of Relativity

<sup>3</sup> Schroeder, Gerald, The Hidden Face of God, The Science of God, Touchstone Books, N.Y.

<sup>4</sup> Greene, Brian, The Elegant Universe, The Fabric of the Cosmos, Vintage Books, N.Y.

As I understand the subject, the Most High God at some juncture decided to manifest an inward part of Himself and declare "Let there be light." As the scientists have demonstrated very well, this 'light' event in current vernacular is the equivalent to the Big Bang, or the beginning of the Universe. As is explained, this Big Bang commenced with an immeasurable degree of heat, explainable only in mathematical terms.

This high level of heat was raw energy, containing all the precursors of matter, which in turn congealed into the planets, stars and elements. That energy is still stored in the atomic structure of the nuclei of every atom of every element in the Universe. By the early 1920s some of the secrets of that energy came to be understood. At the end of WWII, a minute fraction of stored nuclear energy was released over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The same is true of what He spoke into what is now called His Word. He says that He has exalted His Word above (or equal to) His own name. That makes it pretty powerful. In fact, that statement puts it on par with the energy He spoke into all elements of the Universe.

Jer 33:3 expresses, that under certain conditions, the LORD GOD will release to us hidden, inaccessible and hard-to-understand things. I firmly believe these refer to elements of the Third Realm. Jesus spoke of faith moving mountains, doing all the things He did, and more. Paul spoke of the "fullness of God dwelling in us." These are only a few scriptures denoting the proper place we as His kids should occupy. We are to be walking in the fullness of God, utilizing His power as Jesus did. Why are we not?

It is fairly conclusive all aspects of our lives have three realms, each with its own set of laws, precepts and rules. Each field has virtually endless understanding, whether it is light, energy, physics, medicine, or agriculture. The same applies to understanding the Word, or the lack thereof. Much is available therein, but little is apprehended. The latter lack is where His people "are destroyed."

Just as I now have a small LED light, I can choose to press the 'on' button, or leave it 'off'. I choose to turn 'on' the switch of what He said, to correct what is negative, out of joint, or unhealthy. Whether or not I choose to remain ignorant of available solutions to physical, mental or spiritual misalignments does not alter whether or not they exist. The immutable laws instituted by God of every realm continue to regulate every aspect of that realm.

This small but bright LED light is useful as long as I leave the switch 'on'. So it is with 'light' applicable to my mind, obviously to be drawn from His Word, it alone having the power to heal, align, enlighten or enhance. A few conditions are that I remove base things from in front of my eyes, from my hearing and certain bad foods/drink from entering my body. I must also refrain from remaining in the dark mentally by diligently reading and studying the Word.

The writer to the Hebrews said we had better be careful not to “drift away from the truth into error.” ‘Drift away’ means to ‘flow past’, implying the presence of a current carrying us past the point where truth was present along the way.

This same process of God speaking a part of his essence into existent light/energy is the same process by which He spoke a part of His essence into what He said, or His Word. Much greater is the level of power in His Word than the amount of power in the Big Bang. Just as only a fraction of stored energy is appropriated by nuclear fission, so only a minute fraction of the power inherent in the spoken Word of the Most High is appropriated by His people. Thus the lack of knowledge, thence they are destroyed.

April 28, 2013

Ben-Issachar