

COMMON SENSE

Common sense tells you different facts and conditions require different but appropriate actions.

Common sense tells you the mind-boggling complexity and majesty of Nature did not occur through 'random mutation', 'natural selection', or 'survival of the fittest'.

If you dismiss common sense, then sheer mathematical facts will debunk Darwin's 100+ year-old myth, his opinion of what something could be. Two, 'natural selection' is debunked by looking out the window; bluebirds mate with bluebirds. Three, 'survival of the fittest' is simply not true. I can show you many cases where the biggest, and most fit did not survive, but instead the mediocre survived. (The fact fools survive in and of itself demonstrates this to be false.)

Common sense tells you this wondrous Creation, all of Nature, all of this earth, all of this solar system, out of billions of years did not simply "happen".

Common sense tells you all of Creation had to have had an Originator, a Creator, a Mind that surpasses all minds.

Common sense tells you the Human Race was and is to have order no different than the orbits of planets have order.

Common sense tells you there is evil and good in this earth, and that common sense tells you there is a source for both.

Common sense tells you there is both truth and lies.

Common sense tells you fools outnumber the wise, and the masses outnumber the chosen few, and that cowards outnumber the brave.

Common sense tells you the wicked cannot stand the righteous.

Common sense tells you people prefer a smooth talking devil to a common-sense, but firm, Almighty God.

Common sense tells you people prefer to do what they want to do rather than follow their Creator's manual.

Common sense tells you what makes sense....
