

David the psalmist once declared, “You have trained my hands for war, and my fingers for battle.” (Psalms 18:34) By the plan and purpose of the Most High he had learned from a youth the lessons he was to use in the Divine purpose set forth for him. David uttered this from a vantage point of many years. We rarely are allowed to see in the midst of our training the end game of its purpose.

Sixty years ago my right eye was knocked out, so that I might “see” in a singular fashion. Progressively wall-eyed from six years of age and older, I was rejected by nearly all who were close so that I might learn to function without the crutches of society. Pain formed me; solitude cleared the debris of generations past. Persistent, extended observation of nature in the woods for years as a child taught me the insistent, camouflaged patterns associated with life. Fortune has placed me again back into the woods for a refresher course. The lessons learned as a child have been case-hardened, which were lacking the final touches necessary for today’s applications.

The exploration for oil and gas requires the assembling of disparate pieces of data into some cogent pattern. From this occasionally comes an idea for drilling for oil. When competition waxed intense, these patterns were examined by a greater number of geologists. As a result, the cogency of the patterns became more and more elusive, more separated, less and less distinguishable. One now is forced to go farther and farther afield to discern the pattern, often on the order of hundreds of miles. More often than not, the obvious and superficial are misleading; hence the True Pattern remains hidden.

So it is with the machinations of the present society. The End Game is not discovered because the Pattern remains hidden. It remains hidden due to superficial and emotional data garnering the top echelons of thought and analyses. Men particularly have forgotten (or never learned) that all wickedness has an agenda. It never reveals that agenda, ere the populace smell the skunk in the woodpile and thus fail to react in lock-step as the perpetrators would like. Ergo, Satan’s tactics toward Eve (notice he bypassed Adam!) and his tactics toward Jesus were the same. Never does he reveal his agenda.

However, these tactics by the Destroyer are used as little more than a puppet to accomplish the Purposes of the Most High. Indeed, the wicked are created for the day of destruction. As it is written in Isaiah 2, the wicked of His people shall enter the caves of the rocks and the holes of the ground, and flee from the “terror of the LORD and the glory of His majesty. The LORD alone will be exalted in that day.”<sup>(NKJ)</sup> This is the End Game of the Pattern. We tacitly called “believers” just have a real problem seeing this.

Carl Marx, like Hitler, Arafat and even current leaders, was a low-life, an animal. He, like the others, was filled with hate for all things good, and despised anything of order, success or goodness. Marx, as the others of his ilk, capitalized upon the shallowness of men’s minds and upon the weaknesses of their emotions. Both mental states arose out of self-indulgence. His modus operandi was to create enmity between the Givers and the Takers.

He knew how the Takers thought and what motivated them. He also knew the resentment which would arise by unjustly removing what the Givers had earned by hard work and perseverance.

However, neither Marx nor Hitler revealed their End Game, which was to create conflict, mutual destruction and anarchy. By such, their hatred of all that was good was accomplished. Ah, but power came as a result. There are those in power even now in the United States that freely admit such.

There is a pattern emerging that is ominously reminiscent of days gone by, forgotten by nearly all who ignore History. That Pattern has a new twist to it, but internally the same bilge. The American socialists spew, "From every man according to his ability and to every man according to his need." This sounds good, especially to the Takers. But then the Little Red Hen begins to squawk...The end result emerges in class warfare, envy and eventually open conflict.

Ah, but the perpetrators of "giving to the needy" know this, as well as what the End Game will be. Their superficial motive appears (remember the geologic lesson above?) to be compassionate, altruistic and benevolent. But the result will be civil war, inflamed by years of seething hatred and fueled by repeated lies. The match lieth ready....

Cutting to the chase, the Pattern which I "see," is this; we are being deluged with:

- redistributing wealth from the Doers to the Takers.
- anarchists of old re-emerging.
- rants of "God damn America."
- vast fortunes being spent by those who hate the Doers and bitterly hate America (Soros, Islamists/jihadists, pseudo-Marxists).
- blatant violation of all that is orderly, regulated, lawful, just and pure.
- reappearance of those who sow discord, feeding the flames of hate and envy.

Simply put, what is the unspoken, concealed End Game of the Wicked in all this?

- to destroy
- create chaos
- foment envy and hate
- overload the system so the public will cry for "solutions"
- enslave the stupid and careless
- erase out all that is Good and Holy

I trust you are ready for the smell of blood...
